Turn teaching into your research!

To support the research of our teaching faculty, we are offering you one free day of room and board for your personal research purposes in exchange for every three days you are paid to teach a SML credit course (this will not impact your salary). This incentive includes a round trip boat ride from Portsmouth to Appledore on one of the regularly scheduled boats. SML can be a busy place so this offer is subject to space availability, please obtain approval for your dates and research plan as soon as possible. We invite you to think about bringing a graduate student with you while you teach to maximize your time on the island- they use these free research days to collect data, while you teach away. Boats fees, diving fees, and special facility uses will be billed normally. When conducting research at SML, we kindly ask you to please follow the SML research policies found at: <http://www.shoalsmarinelaboratory.org/visiting-researchers>
